

Recent Cooperative Observer Awards

NWS Glasgow has nearly 80 cooperative weather observers in the twelve counties we forecast and warn for. These dedicated individuals take measurements daily including river gages, precipitation, snowfall/snow depth, and high and low temperatures. Many of these observers have been taking measurements for decades, and the Awards Program recognizes their length of service.

Dick Beery was presented with a 25 Year Length of Service Award from the National Weather Service in Glasgow, MT. Dick takes and records daily temperature, precipitation, snowfall and snow depth readings at his station in Circle, MT. The award was presented by Observing Program Leader Matthew Moorman and Cooperative Program Manager Brian Burleson from the National Weather Service in Glasgow, MT. Pictured from left to right are Matthew Moorman and Dick Beery.

Eugene Meyer was presented with a 20 Year Length of Service Award from the National Weather Service in Glasgow, MT. Eugene takes and records daily temperature, precipitation, snowfall and snow depth readings at his station in Westby, MT. The award was presented by Cooperative Program Manager Brian Burleson and Meteorologist Intern Josh Barnwell from the National Weather Service in Glasgow, MT. Pictured from left to right are Brian Burleson and Mr. Meyer.

Charles and Darlene Moline were presented with a 25 Year Length of Service Award from the National Weather Service in Glasgow, MT. Charles and Darlene take and record daily temperature, precipitation, snowfall and snow depth readings at their station near Brockway, MT. The award was presented by Observing Program Leader Matthew Moorman and Cooperative Program Manager Brian Burleson from the National Weather Service in Glasgow, MT. Pictured from left to right are Matthew Moorman, and Darlene and Charles Moline.

Arnold Robson was presented with a 35 Year Length of Service Award from the National Weather Service in Glasgow, MT. Mr. Robson takes and records daily precipitation, snowfall and snow depth readings at his station in Lindsay, MT. The award was presented by Observing Program Leader Matthew Moorman and Cooperative Program Manager Brian Burleson from the National Weather Service in Glasgow, MT. Pictured from left to right are Brian Burleson and Arnold Robson.

Franklin Smith was presented with a 40 Year Length of Service Award by the National Weather Service office in Glasgow, MT. Franklin reads the river gauge at the Highway 2 Bridge in Malta, MT. The award was presented by Brian Burleson, Cooperative Program Manager, and Patrick Gilchrist, Lead Forecaster, from the National Weather Service in Glasgow, MT. In the picture from left to right are Franklin Smith and Brian Burleson.

